You'll shoot your eye out ...

Cpl. Jennifer Brofer
Sergeant Maria Fuentes, an Oscar Co. drill instructor, takes a stance as she gets sprayed with a stream of Oleoresin Capsicum (OC) spray during the Marine Corps Martial Arts Program Green Belt Instructor Course Nov. 7. The substance, which participants said is worse than pepper spray, is sprayed into the eyes of all Marines who participate in the class before they complete an obstacle course where they must exercise various thrusts and jabs while warding off enemy attacks.
